Scarlet Clothes for Hunters.

One of the changes made in the Game Act, the purpose of which is to make hunters themselves more conspicuous, is to the effect, that it will be unlawful for anyone to hunt big game unless clothed in a coat and cap of scarlet material. Heretofore the color effect has been white, but it is thought that the change to scarlet will help greatly as a Safety First precaution in the woods.

Stony Plain's New Merchant

We note, this week, the retirement of Mr. Wm. Kelly from the business of general merchandising, after having been located on Main street for nine years.

Mr. Kelly has retired in favor of Mr. Thomas Young, an experienced merchant, who took charge of the Kelly store on Friday last.

Mr. Young has re-stocked the store with a new and up-to-date assortment of groceries, dry goods, etc., and issues an invitation to those who appreciate new goods at a reasonable price to call and inspect.

De Forest Crosley Radios.

Mr. A. E. Michael was present, on Friday evening, at the convention of dealers in De Forest Crosley Radios, held at the Macdonald hotel.

The various points of the new models of the De Forest Crosley Radios now being placed on the market were pointed out. Eight of these models were displayed, and created great interest.

The selling points of the new radios were then given, and it was pointed out that the performance of the actual operation of the modern radio, judged on sensitivity, selectivity, ease of handling and dependability of handling surpassed all past accomplishments. A banquet followed, at which Mr. Michael was present. Mr. Michael has been selling De Forest Radios in Stony Plain since 1924, and maintains an efficient service in connection with his Radio Department.

Help Our Youth Now.

Within recent weeks daily newspapers throughout the Dominion have printed columns, and sometimes solid pages, of names of young men and women who have graduated from universities and colleges or passed the final examinations of their Normal, technical, collegiate, high school or business college courses. The total number of these young people in Canada runs away up in the thousands every year, and last year and again this year has been no exception.

In the case of the University and college graduates they have, with a few exceptions who will go on with post-graduate work, come to the end of one phase of life. The same is true of the vast majority of those who have completed Normal, technical, collegiate, high school, and business college courses. A certain number of these will go to university, or take up some special course of further training, but, generally speaking, these students have ended the days of their scholastic preparation for life.

In a word, this great army of youth, who in their teens and early twenties have been studying and undergoing training, has completed this first stage in life's journey. They have been preparing for work. They are now ready to go to work, and are eager to begin, bubbling over with enthusiasm and keyed up with energy for the work ahead, and stirred with ideas and ambitions of what they expect and desire to accomplish.

And right at the outset they are met with rebuff, with crushing disappointment. In an overwhelming majority of cases there is no work for them to do, no positions open for them to fill, no opportunities knocking at the door to which they can respond. True, there is the odd case where through family or other influence a position is made available, but, by and large, inability to secure work is the experience of this army of today's youth, trained, eager, and ready to work. They find themselves in a world which offers them little or no opportunity to use their hard won knowledge and training.

Herein lies the greatest tragedy of present day conditions, herein is to be found the greatest menace not only to the future lives and usefulness of these young people, but to the future of our country. At the close of one period in their lives, they are confronted with a blank wall; they cannot retrace their steps, they cannot go forward. What are they to do except "mark time" for the present, and, while marking time, what is to be effected on their enthusiasms, their energy and initiative, their ambitions—in a word, on their character? They must fill in the time in some fashion. During this trying period of enforced idleness, are they going to develop habits of shiftlessness, slip into evil ways, weaken morally? Is the clear, straight thinking developed in their student days to become twisted, and the strong anchorages deeply imbedded in the wisdom and experience of the past which have been instilled in them to be uprooted?

These are questions to be answered not only by present-day youth, but by the more adult generation. The elders of today have survived other depressions, other panics and crises, and they know that the evils of today will be overcome and pass away. They have confidence that there are just as good, even better days ahead; that the future holds just as great opportunities as the past, and that these opportunities will come to the youth of today as they came to them. But youth, lacking the experience, is not sure of this. It has had its gold visions of immediate activity and usefulness in the world of work dimmed, if not shattered. They are hurt and bewildered. They are not at all sure of the future, and are in a questioning state of mind. They do not know where to turn. Parents and friends are absorbed in their own difficulties, worried and apt to be impatient.

The elders of this generation require to develop an understanding of their children's problems and present outlook on life, to reveal to them a deep sympathy, and to cultivate a divine patience with them. Parents can, perhaps, do more in these days to make or break the future lives of their children than was possibly the case in other years.

And what is true of the parents is likewise true of those who are the leaders of and responsible for the life and activities of the communities in which they live. Youth must be served, and if active remunerative employment for a time cannot be provided as an outlet for their energies and enthusiasms, then other provision must be made.

Students of the problem confronting youth at present suggest two forms of activity for them in the absence of other employment. One, that in each and every community adequate means and forms of recreation be provided to engage the interest of and provide an outlet for the energies of youth. In all departments of sport, in properly supervised dances, in the organization of orchestras, glee clubs, amateur theatricals, debating societies, in libraries containing books on inventions, explorations, science, etc.

Second, in the arousing and developing of an interest among young people in the welfare of the community in which they live. If remunerative occupation cannot be provided for the youth of the community, give them the opportunity to serve themselves through some form of recreation and to serve others and the community at large until the opportunity to realize their ambitions returns. The elders of the community can develop such programmes—there is always a need, and probably more so now than ever before—and by the application of the enthusiasm and energy of youth they can be carried through. It will keep them out of mischief, and give them something to think about besides their own problems. Instead of becoming narrow, selfish and bitter, such an interest will broaden their outlook and such activities will sweeten their lives. They will discover many things to be thankful for; that in many ways they are not so badly off after all; hope will be revived, confidence restored, new, and possibly better conditions aroused.

Suffered A Severe Attack Of Dysentery

Mr. P. L. D. Moulard, Vernon, B.C., writes:—"Last Summer I suffered from a severe attack of dysentery. I tried nearly everything on the market, without getting any relief, until a friend told me to use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which I did, and I got immediate relief. Now I am making it a rule to always keep a bottle of it in my medicine chest."

"Wild Strawberry is a sure relief for dysentery, colic and diarrhoea, but I always see I get the genuine 'Dr. Fowler's.'"

Food Prices Decline

Cost Of Food Half Of What It Was In 1921

Cost of food today over the store counter is considerably less than half what it was in 1921, and has shown a marked decline since 1929, a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows.

The index numbers of the Dominion Bureau of the retail prices of food 11 years ago stood at 141.1; in 1929 it was 101, slightly over the base of 100 in 1926, and in July this year it was 61.4, a drop of 39.6 points in three years.

The index number of clothing, fuel and rents has also declined, and on the whole the change in the cost of living is shown by a drop in the total index from 99.9 in 1929 to 80.8 last month.

Practically every item of food shows reduction, including meats, butter, milk, bread, sugar, coffee and tea. Vinegar is a lone standout, showing little change. It was 7.8 cents per pint in 1929. Today it is 7.5 cents.

WHOLE FAMILY WITH INDIGESTION

A mother of four writes:—"Myself and family of four all seemed to suffer from acidity, pains in the back, and other signs of indigestion. I suffered whatever I ate. But since we have been taking Kruschen (for the last few months) we feel like anything, and all enjoy our food much better. We never have a trace of acidity or pain now. I think it is wonderful! It has no upsetting results. Whatever we may have to go without, we could not give up Kruschen." Mrs. M. K. Kruschen Salts actively neutralizes acid, takes all the ferment out of it, and gently cleanses it from the system. And by stimulating your organs of elimination to perfect regular action, Kruschen will prevent this harmful acid from ever accumulating again. After that you'll experience no more misery after meals. Kruschen will keep your inside clean and serene. Pure and invigorated blood will be sent coursing to every part of your body. You'll feel wonderfully energetic and well. As healthy and hearty as it is humanly possible to feel.

Revenue From Radio

Receipts From Radio Licenses Exceed One Million Dollars

Receipts from radio receiving licenses this fiscal year already exceed $1,000,000. This means 500,000 owners of sets have taken out licenses. This is said to be about half of those owning sets. It had been planned to prosecute those who did not take out licenses voluntarily but it has been decided to first make a house to house canvass. Commander C. P. Edwards will have charge of organizing this Canada-wide undertaking.

Old Coin Survives Fire

Was Imbedded In Silver Of Others That Melted

A coin 1,133 years old, dated A.D. 799, has been found at Corning, Illinois, among the possessions of Jake Bitter. Mrs. Bitter's father was a coin collector, but when his home burned the coins were melted. The metal was thrown in a trunk. Dug out recently with an eye toward selling the silver metal, the mass revealed one coin imbedded in the silver. Made of copper, it had not melted.

An Important Industry

Demand For Lobsters From Canadian Waters Is Growing

The lowly lobster has climbed to a high place of importance among Canadian industries and offers one of the brightest spots on the Dominion's business horizon, according to a bulletin just released by the Department of Immigration and Colonization of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

"Both in the United States and Great Britain, demand for lobsters from Canadian waters has been growing and the industry is in a healthy state," the bulletin stated. "Lobsters now are second only to salmon as the most important fishing enterprise in Canada, the salmon industry being centered largely in British Columbia and the lobsters coming chiefly from the Atlantic coast near Halifax, N.S."

The bulletin told of a new record for a single shipment of canned lobsters which recently was made to Great Britain. The shipment contained 10,000 cases and was valued at $200,000.

A Token Of Gratitude

German Soldier Pays Tribute To Humanity Of American Doughboy

A little silver coin bracelet to commemorate the humanity of an unknown "doughboy" who saved the life of his enemy was recently deposited in America's war museum at West Point.

August Ullrich, late of the Kaiser's armies, sent the trinket from his death-bed and with it this note:

"Before I will have to depart, I mean to fulfill the promise I gave to a soldier of the American army, who saved my life in 1918."

"I therefore lay in your hands a bracelet made out of old German coins as a sign of appreciation for a nation whose soldiers even in war treated their enemies with great consideration."

Tree Planting Car Is Performing Very Valuable Services For Farmers Of Prairie Provinces

The tree planting car of the Canadian Forestry Association, which left Regina on May 28th, for its annual tour of the Prairie Provinces completed that part of its itinerary covering points in Saskatchewan on August 9th with a splendid turnout of farming people at Fuller, and on Wednesday, August the 10th, proceeded west on the Coronation branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to Altario, where the first stop of the present tour in Alberta was made.

Since the tour commenced, 56 towns in Saskatchewan have been visited, 140 lectures held, with a total attendance of 19,949 people. Apart from the large number of people who called at the car during the day to ask questions, the staff visited 100 farm homes, where belts are either well established or a good start made. Two hundred and sixteen town plantings were visited, and 252 letters of inquiry into various phases of the work answered from the car.

After two, and in many districts, three years, of the very hardest conditions against the successful growth of trees and shrubs, it is most encouraging as well as interesting to note the favourable reaction in tree planting this year. With the coming of a season of a good amount of moisture, preparations are under way this year by both farmers and townspeople, for a general advance in protecting and beautifying their homes, and next spring, it is safe to say, will see more trees set out than in any previous one in the history of western tree planting.

The years of drought and high winds have taught us the vital necessity of trees, and have also shown us the kinds which are able to withstand these severe conditions. Except for quick results, the willows, poplars, and maples have had their day as shelter-belt trees, though their ability for rapid growth will always be made use of, both for protection, fuel, and fence posts. The future plan will use caragana, ash and elm, our permanent deciduous trees, and most important of all the evergreens, the spruces in particular being adaptable to any and all prairie conditions, and of course, like the pine, affording twelve months protection and beauty.

Not only do trees furnish protection, to the family, the stock, and buildings, as well as giving beauty, permanence, and increased value to the farm and home, but it is now definitely proved beyond any doubt, that their protection, and ability to hold and conserve moisture will assure us a good garden every year. Even in the worst drought areas during the past two and three years, the farmer who had his garden, and his shelter-belts received returns from it, while the man who depended on the garden in the open prairie in nearly every case received nothing at all when harvest time came around. Such side lines as bees, poultry, and small fruits, become a success with tree belts to lend protection, and with the great need for the southern farmer raising and growing more of the stuff he needs for himself and family, trees will be greatly used to insure success in this first important step towards independence. In using trees for the protection of field crops, those who have given it a thorough trial claim that taking five year periods, the well protected field will yield one third more, than one without any protection. There are many districts where field betting will never become necessary, but over large areas of our southern plains the next few years will see extensive field betting undertaken.

Horse Holding Its Own

Farmers In These Difficult Times Find Horses' Supply Cheap

The last public horse cab in Boston was replaced the other day by a motor car. So, says the New York Herald-Tribune, one more American metropolis has surrendered to the machine age and all its implications of vanished leisure and simplicity.

But the horse, though vanishing, has not altogether vanished. It is many a day since the hansom cab was the fastest, gayest vehicle on Granville Street or Hastings. But in Montreal one must still take a horse-cab if one wishes to drive round the Mountain. In Washington, sight-seers can still find a few open horse-carriages—relics of another day—while 30 permits for hacks are issued each year in New York.

In the cities, it is true that the horse is going, or that those that remain linger superfluous on the stage. But in the country, it is different. Hard times have given a distinct setback to the mechanization of agriculture, and the horse appears to be holding his own. Dobbin's board costs little. Hay and oats can be grown on the farm. But the tractor's fodder must be bought, and cash is scarce.

A recent census bulletin issued from the Bureau of Statistics shows that there were 3,128,058 horses in Canada in 1931, as compared with 3,451,769 in 1921. The decrease was 327,711, or 9.35 per cent, not a surprising decrease when one considers how rapidly mechanization has come to the business of light and heavy trucking in the towns and cities, which now contain more than half the people of Canada. The number of horses, according to the census report, has fallen off in every province, the decrease ranging from 18.11 per cent. in Nova Scotia to 6.84 per cent. in Saskatchewan. British Columbia's horse population fell from 61,385 in 1921 to 55,379 in 1931, a decrease of 9.16 per cent. The bulletin notes, however, an increase in the number of horses in those districts in which a great number of occupied farms is recorded, an indication, it is taken, that the horse remains essential in the newer parts of the country.

Empire Marketing Board Operations May Be Extended If Dominions Will Assist

Slinness and Health

Weight Can Be Controlled By Right Food and Exercise

It will surprise no one who has attentively watched modern developments to learn that men are more and more adopting the practice of slimming. They are, in fact, following the lead which their women-kind has given, and with good reason. Since slimming became fashionable women have greatly gained in health and in looks; and their expectation of life has become longer.

Though certain famous statesmen—notably Bismarck and the late Lord Salisbury—have tended to adiposity, most great men have had a horror of being fat. Byron, the poet, was among the earliest slimmers. Indeed he boasted that in two years he had brought down the weight from 14 stone 7 pounds to 10 stone 8 pounds, which is astonishing enough.

But he lived with an eccentricity that is not demanded of our slimmers. A diet is suggested for them which is much more agreeable than his draughts of vinegar and chambray of tobacco and mastic. With the right food and proper exercises under medical advice (which should never be neglected) man can control his weight; and he is all the better for doing it.—Overseas Daily Mail.

Daring Thieves Take Bedding From Unoccupied Cell Cots

Instead of keeping the city jail at Pittsfield, Illinois, locked to keep dishonest persons in, officials are relieved to bar all windows and doors to keep crooks out.

Manchuria contains over 85,000,000 acres of forest, 1,700,000,000 tons of coal and 400,000,000 tons of iron. The annual output of Japanese ore mines at Fushan and Yenai is about 7,000,000 tons.

STORIES NOBODY CAN READ

These pictures are petroglyphs, or rock writings, on Vancouver Island, some near Victoria, others farther north. At one time they were thought to be the work of the Island Indians. However, the Indians cannot decipher them and they are now held to have been cut into hard, native rock by some prehistoric people who lived on Vancouver Island long before the Indians came here. Perhaps they were made by the race that inhabited the Great Continent that sank, long ago, into the Pacific and of which Vancouver Island may have been a part.

Continuation and expansion of the work of the Empire marketing board of the United Kingdom, as a result of the Imperial Conference, is now suggested. It is possible that the work of the board, heretofore largely concerned with pushing the sale of Empire products in the markets of Great Britain, may be extended. It may be enlarged so as to include the advertising of United Kingdom commodities in Canada and the other Dominions.

The future of the Empire marketing board, it is intimated, has been the subject of careful consideration by the important Imperial Conference committee on methods of economic co-operation. This matter, with a number of other questions requiring further discussion, may be considered by a special committee, with representation from all Dominions as well as the United Kingdom, which will continue its work in London. Such a committee would report as speedily as possible, probably within six months, to the various governments interested.

The view of the various delegations is that the Empire marketing board has done excellent work. It was established for the benefit of the Dominions after the United Kingdom had found herself unable to grant preference to them in British markets. Now, since to them in British markets. Now, however, the position is somewhat different. The United Kingdom has established certain preferences and will probably, as a result of the conference, extend that principle. Consequently, it is intimated the raison d'être of the board has vanished.

On the other hand it is intimated that the work performed by the board is so valuable that its continuation is considered desirable. It is not felt to be equitable, however, that the British taxpayers should be asked to foot the entire bill, as has been the case in the past. Consequently the question arises as to whether or not the board shall be continued, and, if so, in what form. It might go on just as it is, with the dominions who benefit sharing in the cost of maintenance. On the other hand, it might be expanded so as to have representation in the Dominions and perhaps the United Kingdom goods in Dominion markets, as well as Dominion goods in the markets of the United Kingdom. Money for continuing the work of the present board to the end of the present fiscal year has been voted by the United Kingdom government.

This suggestion of outside monetary contribution to the Empire marketing board's upkeep was made at the 1930 Imperial Conference, and is being repeated. At the conference in 1930 it was not made quite clear as to whether the suggested contributions would be restricted to the Dominions or not.

Bottle Containing Message Floated In Sooner Than Expected

Thrown overboard from the French liner "Franc" in mid-Atlantic last September, a bottle containing a message has been picked up on the North Devon coast, 1,500 miles from the starting point. "I predict," says the writer, "that when it will be found Jerome will be a well-to-do lawyer, and Sam a physician." But he did not think the bottle would travel so fast, for the information was added that Jerome was eight years old and Samuel 14.

Man a Farm Plan

British Columbia Government Considering Scheme To Alleviate Distress

Careful consideration is being given by the British Columbia Government to a man-a-farm plan as a possible means of alleviating distress this winter without the outlay of large sums of money.

The plan Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, announced, is that single unemployed men adapted to farm life be placed with farmers throughout the province. The men would receive their shelter and board and possibly a small allowance for their own use. The farmers would receive services, and special courses of instruction would be carried out by the government.

COOL SLEEVELESS DRESS WITH A JACKET THAT PROVIDES SMARTNESS AND CHARM

Here's a distinctive model for the woman of heavier build, who realizes the importance of slenderizing features.

The jabot revers of the bolero jacket ending just above the waistline, minimize the bodice breadth. The inverted pleat at the centre-back of the skirt imparts a suggestion of height and narrowness.

A small patterned printed crepe silk is an excellent medium for this slimming model.

For more summery wear, you can make it of a linen tweed, polka-dotted voile or a novelty lacy cotton fabric.

Style No. 499 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 1/2 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

It's simplicity itself to make it. And you'll be surprised at the small amount it will cost you.

Price of pattern 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

GIFTS FOR BUILDING THE TABERNACLE

Golden Text: "Honor Jehovah with thy substance, and with the first-fruits of all thine increase." — Proverbs 3:9.
Lesson: Exodus 35:4 to 36:7.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 84:1, 2, 8-12.

Explanations and Comments

The Call For Contributions For The Sanctuary. Exodus 35:3-20.—Moses assembled the people and addressed them, probably from a raised platform. He reminded them that it was God's desire to have a sanctuary where He might meet them and they might offer Him their worship. He called for voluntary contributions of materials and labor for the sanctuary and its equipment and for the vestments of the priests. There was one restriction; the givers of gifts must be "willing-hearted," and the laborers "wise-hearted." The people listened and quietly went back to their tents.

"You might have wondered whether they would return, since so little had been said to touch their emotions and arouse their enthusiasm. How different this seems to the methods in use today to extract money from reluctant hands!"

"An Old Subscription List," verses 21-29.—This heading is the happy title which Dr. Alexander Macaren gives to his exposition of this chapter. "Let each man do according as he hath prospered in his heart," wrote Paul to the Corinthians, "not grudgingly or of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver." The men and women on this old subscription list fulfilled that injunction of Paul's. They came—a great crowd of willing givers, "every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing," laden with gifts needed for the building of God's house and for "the holy garments," the garments consecrated for use in the sanctuary.

"The world asks, 'How much does he give?' Christ asks, 'Why does he give?'" — John R. Mott.

They were refugees. They were living in the wilderness, where there were no stores or workshops. Materials for the tabernacle must come

Utilize White Whales

Hides May Be Used For Manufacture Of Fancy Leather Goods

The two white whales brought to Winnipeg from Hudson Bay by the Industrial Development Board of Manitoba have been rendered at the St. Boniface abattoirs and they provided 35 per cent. of their total weight in excellent quality oil, bearing a slight odor, and being only slightly stronger than olive oil. The board hopes to develop a new industry on the northern water body.

The hides are now in process of tanning which will take some time, but leather workers believe it will prove suitable for the manufacture of ladies' handbags, and other fancy leather goods. Minute study of the outer skin reveals a mottled effect with alternating patches of smooth and rough skin. Blubber almost two inches thick adheres to the hide, but comes off readily.

Artificial Lighting For Office Buildings

Would Provide Uniform Glow Which Is Easier On Eye

Some authorities on illumination contend that the office buildings of the future will be built without windows and will employ artificial ventilation, also artificial lighting throughout, in an effort to secure a uniform glow which will not tire the eyes. An instrument has been invented which tests accurately the effect of various lights on the eyes.

CANADIAN WOMEN FIND DUSTING DISTASTEFUL

Dust cloths going into discard; Unpleasant to use; a bother to Wash

APPLEFORD WONDER PAPER HAS GREAT VOGUE

Of all household tasks, that of dusting is the least appealing to the majority of women.

However, this condition, like many another connected with housework, is undergoing radical change. In a great many Canadian homes the women are discarding dust cloths entirely, and are using Appleford Wonder Paper instead, because it actually dusts—as it cleans—as it polishes, doing a better and much quicker job than the old dust cloth ever did.

This new, and extremely modern Wonder Paper, is made from clean rags, and soft paper pulp, treated in a scientific way with a high-grade furniture polish; and absorbs dirt instead of spreading it.

Appleford Wonder Paper comes in handy-size packages, twenty-five large sheets for twenty-five cents. You crumple a sheet into a soft wad and go over the surfaces requiring attention. Then when one side is soiled or worn, turn the Wonder Paper inside out. After you have given a quick and lasting finish to furniture and woodwork, you can still use Wonder Paper on the floors, if you wish.

And when you are through, there's no old duster to shake out or wash. Throw the soiled Wonder Paper away and you've completed the most tiresome part of housework in half the time and with half the effort.

Wonder Paper is made by the makers of the famous PARA-SANI Heavy Waxed Paper in the Green Box.

NEW DEEP WATER ROUTE FOR WESTERN WHEAT

Most fittingly, the vital new link in the Great Lakes system, Canada's $128,000,000 new Welland Canal, was opened, officially, by sending the grain-carrier afloat, S.S. Lemoyne of Canada Steamship Lines, through the eight locks to Kingston with the biggest cargo of western wheat moved

OPENED BY WORLD'S GREATEST GRAIN VESSEL

In two years, a load of grain over 150,000 bushels greater than had ever been shipped through the lower lakes in history. The Governor-General, delegates to the Imperial Conference, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett and members of the Cabinet all attended the opening ceremonies at Thorold.

CONSIDER PLANS FOR FINANCING DIRECT RELIEF

Winnipeg, Man.—Special sessions of the three prairie legislatures may be called this fall to consider a plan to finance direct unemployment relief if the Federal Government does not continue arrangements made last fall, according to reports in official circles here.

Under an agreement the Federal Government, province, and municipalities each were to pay one-third, the Dominion Government in addition agreeing to assist the province to finance its share. The Dominion Government later notified the province that it did not propose to continue this arrangement after April 1.

Each of the prairie provinces is now confronted with the situation of being unable to finance relief purposes except on bank overdraft, and under the circumstances this is not possible.

Calgary, Alberta.—Representatives of the four western provinces and cities may meet Premier R. B. Bennett in the city in less than two weeks, it is expected representatives will seek an appointment here.

Mutual Preferences

Committee on Foreign Relations Makes Recommendations

Ottawa, Ont.—The Imperial Conference committee on foreign relations is understood to include in its report recommendations that:

(1) No treaty obligations into which the empire countries might enter in the future should be allowed to interfere with any mutual preferences which the governments of the commonwealth might agree upon.

(2) The empire countries will free themselves from any existing treaties as might interfere with mutual preferences which may be agreed upon.

The United Kingdom has trade pacts giving most favored nation treatment to Soviet Russia and Argentina. No treaties, though, are specified in the report.

New Shotgun Device

Youthful Inventor Claims Weapon Can Fire 400 Shots a Minute

Chicago.—A 20-year-old junior college student is inventor of a device which he claims will convert an ordinary shotgun into a death-dealing device capable of shooting its customary ammunition at the rate of 400 shots a minute—and has pledged himself to keep it from gangsters and criminals.

The inventor, Charles A. Michal of suburban Elmhurst, said the device can easily be attached to any shotgun. It has been submitted to local police departments for thorough tests.

Britain Would Tax Road Users Heavily

Railway and Highway Authorities Propose Higher Levy

London, England.—Heavy additional taxation on users of the public highway is proposed in the report of a joint conference between railway and highway authorities in Great Britain, issued recently.

"Mechanically propelled vehicles" should pay $240,000,000 a year toward the cost of roads, the report recommends. Of this commercial vehicles should pay $94,000,000 and others $146,000,000. The report urges a much heavier tax on commercial vehicles, particularly the large type.

Braving Ocean in Canoe

Two Scandinavian Sailors Leave Montreal For Vancouver

Montreal, Que.—Braving the dangers of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, two experienced Scandinavian sailors left here August 16 in an 18-foot canoe en route to Vancouver via Cape Horn. The navigators, Helge Borup, 42, Danish sailor and newspaper editor, and Harold T. Jensen, 35, a veteran ship's officer, expect to complete the journey in about two years.

The craft, an Ontario product, is equipped with a sail, outrigger and rudder and will carry the two men, who weigh about 200 pounds each, together with 800 pounds of equipment made up of a tent, clothing, fishing line, camping utensils and modern navigation instruments.

The two plan to sail down the St. Lawrence River, through the gulf and along the coast of the Maritime provinces and New England states to Boston and New York, where stops will be made. Their itinerary will then take them to Key West and thence to Havana, Cuba.

From the Pacific Coast they intend entraining to the Thunder Bay district for an inland water voyage back to Montreal.

Jensen navigated the Amazon River alone from its source to the sea in 1924.

For National Bank

Native Sons Of Canada Want Revision Of Canadian System

Quebec, Que.—The Native Sons of Canada want revision of the Canadian banking system.

After lengthy discussion, the organization in convention here adopted a resolution embodying the following points:

(1) Creation of a national banking commission having discretionary powers over all matters pertaining to all Canadian banks;

(2) Creation of a Canadian national bank, to serve as a reserve bank;

(3) Greater protection for bank depositors together with stricter governmental surveillance of banking practices.

"Lack of interest shown by Canadians in Dominion Day, and refusal of some industrial and business firms to declare a holiday on that day was deplored in another resolution adopted by the convention.

Estate Will Be Auctioned

Large Property Of Earl Of Egmont To Be Sold

London, England.—Calverton estate, a property in Buckinghamshire belonging to the Earl of Egmont, is to be sold by auction, it was announced recently.

The youthful "Rancher Earl", who succeeded to the title on the death of his father four months ago, has returned to Canada and is living on the Alberta ranch at Fridley, where "Mr. Percival" farmed until he became the 10th earl in 1929.

Calverton estate covers about 461 acres, with a small residence, three farms, 32 country cottages and some valuable building land.

Grant Provided For

Money For Grain Show Will Be Available As Required

Ottawa, Ont.—The balance of $140,000, which remains of the Dominion grant for the world grain show, to be held in Regina next year, will be made available as required.

A vote was put in the estimates last year for $150,000, and $10,000 of this has been paid over. This has been announced at the Department of Agriculture.

The management of the fair is in the hands of an executive committee headed by Hon. W. C. Buckle, Minister of Agriculture in Saskatchewan.

To Test New Airplane

Berlin, Germany.—An airplane which will retrace the steps of aviation to study the flight of birds is awaiting a trial at Tempelhof Aerodrome. It has a wing construction approximating the wings of a seagull and its aim is to secure greater stability in the air. Hans Richter, pioneer glider flyer, is the designer.

CALLS FOR MORE TREES

Mounties May Police B.C.

Would Bring Whole Of Western Canada Under Federal Force

Victoria, B.C.—Consideration of turning over to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police the policing of British Columbia is under consideration of the department of the attorney-general, it was definitely learned here.

The development is one of the results of the Kidd report on British Columbia finances, it was stated.

The arrangement proposed provides the abolition of the British Columbia Provincial police and 39 municipal police forces, all of which cost $1,700,000 annually. City police forces of Vancouver and Victoria would be continued as at present.

Completion of an agreement for policing British Columbia by the Royal Canadian Mounted would bring the whole of western Canada under the federal force. Saskatchewan turned over its policing to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police almost four years ago, while Alberta and Manitoba provincial forces were absorbed this spring.

Irish Tariff War

President De Valera Showing Little Interest In Question

Dublin, Ireland.—If fresh overtures are made for negotiations to end the tariff war between the Irish Free State and the United Kingdom, they must come from London. This is the general understanding in official circles here.

Concentrating on internal problems, President Eamon de Valera has shown little interest so far in the question of reopening negotiations. He is said to be well aware of the difficulties confronting his new policy, now that retaliatory tariffs on both sides have dislocated trade across the Irish Sea. Default of Free State land annuities to Britain started the difficulties.

Retrenchment Programme

Manitoba Government Plans Drastic Cut In Expenditures

Winnipeg, Man.—Government members of the Manitoba legislature met in the first caucus since the election, to pass on a retrenchment programme planned by the government of Premier John Bracken, involving a saving of somewhere between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

Previously, Hon. D. G. McKenzie, Minister of Agriculture and Hydro, had announced for purposes of economy his department will not send an exhibit to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto this winter, this move will result in a saving of some $5,000.

Falling revenues since the estimates were submitted in the legislature last spring have made necessary drastic curtailments in Manitoba government expenditures. For instance more than 3,000 fewer passenger cars are being operated in Greater Winnipeg this year, and 12,600 fewer passenger cars for the whole province, according to figures on motor vehicle licenses obtained by the Manitoba tax commission.

Lancaster Is Acquitted

British Flyer Is Freed On a Charge Of Murder

Miami, Fla.—Captain W. N. Lancaster, British flyer, was freed on a charge of murdering Haden Clarke, young writer and his rival in love, Wednesday, August 17, by a verdict which precipitated a court room demonstration that threatened to go beyond the control of bailiffs.

The 12-man jury deliberated four hours and 45 minutes before acquitting him on one complete ballot.

He had been on trial since August 2 in one of the most sensational hearings in the history of South Florida—a trial that brought out the secret love lives of himself, Haden Clarke, and Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix in full detail.

S.S. Pennyworth Arrives

Docks At Churchill With Miscellaneous Cargo

Churchill, Man.—With a miscellaneous cargo in her holds consigned to western Canada points, the British steamship "Pennyworth" docked here after an uneventful voyage from Liverpool. Unloading operations are already under way. Later she will be loaded with 250,000 bushels of grain for the return voyage to the old country.

Six freight steamers will call at Churchill, the new Canadian ocean port at Hudson Bay, during the present season of navigation, it was announced Wednesday, August 17, by Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals.

ITALY PLANNING TO SCRAP THIRD OF ENTIRE FLEET

Rome, Italy.—One hundred and thirty thousand tons of Italy's fighting ships—practically one-third of the entire navy—will be retired under a programme beginning August 25. The purpose is to save money.

When the programme has been completed, Italy will be without a single battleship. The "Andrea Doria," 22,700 tons, and her sister ship, the "Dulio," which were rushed to completion in 1915 when Italy entered the world war, will be placed out of commission. Under the Washington treaty, Italy has the right to 170,000 tons of battleships, but she has elected to disregard this category in favor of heavy and light cruisers.

A report presented to the disarmament conference showed that the whole Italian navy totals 404,000 tons, including 20 ships still under construction.

The need for economy was indicated by the fact that some new ships are intended for retirement. These are four of the 12 2,000-ton destroyers of the newest Italian type.

German Political Situation

Hitler Says He Will Not Use Storm Troops To Gain Power

Berlin, Germany.—Chancellor Franz von Papen has received assurances Adolf Hitler will not use his storm troops to seize political power, but in any event he will not hesitate to suppress any revolt by force of arms.

The chancellor made this assertion in an interview in which he vigorously reiterated Germany's demand for equality in armaments with other nations, declaring the fatherland no longer could submit to being treated a second-class nation.

Although the cabinet situation still is in a state of flux and there is no telling what will rule Germany after the new Reichstag has called into session late this month, the chancellor appeared serenely confident his government would stay in power.

Asked whether he expected to be chancellor next Christmas he said: "We shall be in office for a long time."

Not Afraid Of Weight

Toronto, Ont.—Life guard Tom McGarry is not afraid of size when called on to rescue some one in distress. Hearing cries for help as he patrolled his section of the lakefront here, McGarry responded and brought to shore William Cuppy, 47, whose estimated weight in his bathing suit was 315 pounds.

Faithful To Duty

Premier Brownlee Says:

Definite denial was made by Premier Brownlee in a recent statement, of rumored plans of the Wheat Pool to collect from this year's crop certain losses sustained in previous years. The Premier said, in part: "I have been surprised to hear that rumors are again being circulated through the province with respect to the Wheat Pool, to the effect that an attempt will be made to make up the losses in connection with the 1929 crop by deductions from any crop delivered to the pool this coming crop season. I wish to again state that there is no truth whatever to the statement. The agreement between the Government and Wheat Pool, as ratified by the Legislature, provides for certain fixed payments for a period of 20 years."

Change in Jasper-Pr. Rupert Train Service.

Changes in the Canadian National Ry. service between Jasper and Prince Rupert, effective Wednesday next, the 31st August, will result in passenger trains being operated three, instead of six days a week, over this route. Similar changes were made a year ago. Between Edmonton and Jasper there will be changes in the handling of mail, but no reduction in service is involved. Trains 5 and 6 between Jasper and Prince Rupert will be discontinued, and will be replaced by the accommodation trains Nos. 195 and 196.

Carvel Clippings.

Miss Askin and her brother returned last week from a visit with friends at Nelson, B. C. They were delighted with the fine orchards they seen there; and had many samples of the fine fruit.

The Carvel school board has re-appointed Miss Pauline Farina as teacher for Carvel school.

There will be three pupils from this district in attendance at the coming session at Stony High school. These will be Miss Askin and Messrs Sabadasko and Askin.

Mr F Askin's p.b. Holstein cow (white stripes on back, star on forehead, mane rouché, upcut dewlap on left ear) failed to make her return trip home Friday Evg., much to her owner's surprise. The bossy is a staid animal that has seen thirteen birthdays, and never before had been recaptured to the trust placed in her. Visions of a naughty truckman picking up his 1200 lb. pet and taking her for a ride to a City abattoir, rose before Mr Askin's eyes. A posse was organized and, after making a thoro search of the district, the cow hunters decided to go to Stony and advertise for the family's provider of lacteal fluid. They had just placed an ad. with the Sunman when Mr Askin received a phone message that the stray had just unblushingly ambled down the home trail to her barn.

Kick Wrecks Off Highways.

"Run the wrecks off the road" is the slogan of the National Committee carrying on an anti-hoarding campaign. People are wearing their motor cars threadbare. We'll come to a day when the Government will begin to inspect some of the dangerously obsolete autos which are racing up and down the highways and condemn them in the name of Safety, to the junk pile. When the car becomes a menace to other people, it should lose its road rights. If legislation takes these wrecks off the roads, it will give a big impetus to business.

Government figures of holdings in cold storage show there is a total all grades Aug. 15, 4,185,000 lb.—2,500,000 lb. more than 1931. Chickens account for 1,284,000 lb., a big increase over 1931. The pile of turkeys amount to 1,018,100 lb.—an increase of 771,000 lb. over a year ago.

An 18-Cent Cow.

The Barrhead News tells the following "Chas. Boehler shipped a cow to Edmonton Stockyards and the transaction resulted as follows: wt. 860 lbs.; price 75c per 100 lbs.; value of cow $6.45. But Mr Boehler did not get a check for $6.45. There were reductions as follows: Insurance 30c; Stockyard 75; brand reading 10c; commission 90c; trucking $4.30; exchange on check 15c; making a total of 96.27 which subtracted from $6.45 left 18 cents—the full amount received for the cow.

Specialty Arranged Tours.

Something new in trans-Canada holidays, in which the railway, auto and steamship will be combined in pleasing variety, is offered for the coming summer thru two special tours now being arranged by Canadian National Ry. for the month of August. Those who take part in these tours will traverse over 8000 miles of Canadian territory, 6000 miles by train, 1500 miles by steamer on the Great Lakes and Pacific coast, and over 500 miles by motor car in Rockies and the principal cities visited.

And then Jean found herself resting against the curve of Blaise's arm, with the roan's powerful shoulders, firm and solid as a rock beneath her. "All right?" queried Blaise, gathering up the reins in his left hand. "Lean well back against my shoulder. There, how's that?"

"It's like an arm-chair." He laughed. "I am afraid you won't say the same by the end of the journey," he commented ruefully.

But by the end of the journey Jean was fast asleep. She had "leaned well back" as directed, conscious, as she felt the firm clasp of Blaise's arm, of a supreme sense of security and well-being. The reaction from the strain of the afternoon, the exhaustion consequent upon her fight through the mist and the fall which had so suddenly ended it, and the rhythmic beat of Orion's hoofs all combined to lull her into a state of delicious drowsiness. It was so good to feel that she need fight, and scheme, and plan no longer, to feel utterly safe. . . . to know that Blaise was holding her. . . .

Her head fell back against his shoulder, her eyes closed, and the next thing of which she was conscious was of being lifted down by a pair of strong arms and of a confused murmur of voices from amongst which she hazily distinguished Lady Anne's heartiest: "Thank God you've found her!" And then, characteristically practical, "I'll have her in bed in five minutes. Blankets and hot-water bottles are all in readiness." It was the evening of the following day, Jean, tucked up on a couch and with her strained ankle comfortably bandaged, had been reluctantly furnishing Blaise with the particulars of her experience at the bungalow. She had been very unwilling to confide the whole story to him, fearing the consequence of the Tormarin temper as applied to Burke. A violent quarrel between the two men could do no good, she reflected, and would only be fraught with unpleasant results to all concerned—probably, in the end, securing a painful publicity for the whole affair.

Fortunately Blaise had been out when Judith had rung up earlier in the day to enquire if Jean had returned to Staple, or he might have fired off a few candid expressions of opinion through the telephone. But now there was no evading his searching questions, and he had quietly but determinedly insisted upon hearing the entire story. Once or twice an ejaculation of intense anger broke from him as he listened, but, beyond that he made little comment.

"And—and that was all," wound up Jean. "Anyway, Blaise"—a little anxiously—"it's over now, and I'm none the worse except for the acquisition of a little more worldly wisdom and a strained neck."

"Yes, it's over now," he said, standing looking down at her with a curious gleam in his eyes. "But that sort of thing shan't happen twice. You'll have to marry me—do you hear?"

Importantly, "You shall never run such a risk again. We'll get married at once!"

And Jean with a quiver of amusement at the corners of her mouth, responded meekly:

Yes, Blaise.

The next minute his arms were around her and their lips met in the first supreme kiss of love at last acknowledged—of love given and returned.

There is no gauge by which those first moments when two who love confess that they are lovers may be measured. It is the golden, timeless span when "unborn tomorrow and dead yesterday" cease to have us round about and only love, and love's ecstasy, remain.

To Blaise and Jean it might have been an hour—a commonplace period ticked off by the little silver clock upon the chimney-piece—or half eternity before they came back to the recollection of things mundane. When they did, it was across the kindly bridge of humour.

Blaise laughed out suddenly and boyishly.

"It's preposterous—" he exclaimed. "I quite forgot to propose."

"So you did! Suppose"—smiling up at him imperpertently—"suppose you do it now?"

"Not if I won't waste my breath when I might put it to so much better use in calling you beloved."

Jean was silent, but her eyes answered him. She had made room for him beside her, and now he was seated upon the edge of the Chesterfield, holding her in his arms. She did not want to talk much. That still, serene happiness which lies deep within the heart is not provocative of garrulity.

At last a question—the question that had tormented her through all the long months since she had first realized whither love was leading her, found its way to her lips.

"Why didn't you tell me before, Blaise?"

His face clouded.

"Because of all that had happened in the past. You know—you have been told of this."

"Ah, yes! Don't talk about it, Blaise," she broke in hastily, sending his distasteful recollection to the topic.

"I think we must a little, dear," he responded gravely. "You see, Nesta was not at all to blame—nor even very much, as I'm sure"—with a little halfhearted smile—"my mother tried hard to make you believe."

Jean nodded vigorously.

"She did. And I expect she was perfectly right."

He shook his head.

"No," he answered. "The fault was really mine. My initial mistake was in confusing the false fire with the true. It was not love I had for Nesta. And I found it out when I was too late. We were poles apart in everything, and instead of trying to make it easier for her, trying to understand her and to lead her into our ways of looking at things, I only stormed at her. It roused all that was worst in me to see her trailing our name in the dust, throwing her dignity to the winds, craving for nothing other than amusement and excitement. I'm not trying to excuse myself. There was no excuse for me. In my way, I was as culpable and foolish as she. And when the crash came—"

"When I found her deliberately entertaining in my house against my express orders, a man who ought to have been kicked out of any decent society, why, I let go. The Tormarin temper had its way with me. I shall never forgive myself for that. I frightened her, terrified her. I think I must have been half mad. And then well, you know what followed. She rushed away and, before anyone could find her or help her, she had killed herself—thrown herself into the Seine. Quite what happened between leaving her and her death we never able to find out. Apparently since her marriage with me, her sister had gone to Paris, unknown to her, and had taken a situation as "dame de compagnie" to some Frenchwoman, and Nesta, though she followed from Italy to Paris, failed to find her there. At least that is what Margherita Vald told me in the letter announcing Nesta's death. Then she must have lost heart. So you see, morally I am responsible for that poor, reckless child's death."

"Oh, no, no, Blaise! I don't see that"—pitifully.

"Don't you? I do—very clearly. And that was why, when I found myself caring for you, I tried to keep away!"

He felt in his pocket and produced a plain gold wedding-ring. On the inside were engraved the initials "B. T. and N. F." and a date.

"That was my talisman. Margherita sent it back to me when she wrote telling me of Nesta's death. Whenever I felt my resolution weakening, I used to take it out and have a look at it. It was always quite effective in thrusting me back into my proper place in the scheme of things—that is, outside any other woman's life." There was an inexpressible bitterness in his tones, and Jean drew a little nearer to him, her heart overflowing with compassion. He looked down at it at her and smiled a thought ironically.

"But now—you've beaten me." His lips brushed her hair. "I'm glad to be beaten, beloved. . . . I knew, that day at Montavan, what you might come to mean to me. And I intended never to see you again, but just to take that one day for remembrance. I felt that, having made such an utter hash of things, having spoiled one woman's life and been, indirectly, the cause of her death, I was not fit to hold another woman's happiness in my hands."

Jean rubbed her cheek against his shoulder.

"I'm glad you thought better of it," she observed.

"I don't know, even now, that I'm right in letting you love me—"

"You can't stop me," she objected. He smiled.

"I don't think I would if I could—now."

Jean leaned up and, with a slender, dactylar finger on the side of his face, turned his head towards her.

"Quite sure?" she demanded saucily. Then, without waiting for his answer: "Blaise, I do love your chin—it's such a nice, square, your-money-or-your-life sort of chin."

Something light as a butterfly, warm as a woman's lips, just brushed the feature in question.

He drew her into his arms, folding them closely about her.

"And I—I love every bit of you," he said hoarsely. "Body and soul. I love you! Oh! Heart's beloved! Nothing—no one in the whole world shall come between us two ever again!"

CHAPTER XXX.

The Gateway

August seemed determined to justify her claim to be numbered among the summer months before making her exit. Apparently she had repented her of having recently visited the country in a mist that might have been regarded as a very creditable effort even on the part of November, for today the sun was blazing down out of a cloudless sky and scarcely a breath of wind swayed the nodding cornstalks, heavy with golden grain.

Jean, her strained ankle now practically recovered, was tramping along the narrow footpath through the cornfield, following in Blaise's footsteps, while Nick brought up the rear of the procession. She had not seen Claire since her engagement had become an actual fact, though a characteristically warm-hearted little note from the latter had found its way to Staple, and this morning Jean had declared her inability to exist another day "without a heart-to-heart" talk with Claire."

Hence the afternoon's pilgrimage across the country which formed part of a short cut between Staple and Charwood.

At first Jean had feared lest her new-found happiness might raise a barrier of sorts betwixt herself and Claire. The contrast between the respective hands that Fate had dealt them was so glaring, and the rose and gold with which love had suddenly decked Jean's own life seemed to make the bleak tragedy which enveloped Claire's appear even darker than before.

But Claire's letter, full of a quiet, unselfish rejoicing in the happiness which had fallen to the lot of her friend, had somehow smoothed away the little uncomfortable feeling of comparison which, to anyone as sensitive as Jean, had been a very real embarrassment. Nick's felicitations, too, had been tendered with frank cordiality and affection, and with a delicate perception that had successfully concealed the sting of individual pain which the contrast could hardly fail to have induced.

So it was with a considerably lightened heart that Jean, with her escort of two, followed between the gates of Charwood and, avoiding the lengthy walk entailed by following the windings of the drive, struck off across the velvety lawns—smooth stretches of close-cropped sward which, broken only by branching trees and shrubbery, and undisturbed by the dreadful formality of symmetrical flower-beds, swept right up to the gravelled terrace fronting the windows of the house itself.

The two men loitered to discuss the points of a couple of young sparrows rollicking together on the grass, but Jean, eager to see Claire, smilingly declined to wait for them, and, speeding on ahead, she mounted the short flight of steps leading to the terrace from the lower level of the lawns.

Golf Shots.

Well, it's all over, and you've got to hand it to the ladies, as usual.

The male element are kidding themselves into the belief that next time it's going to be different.

The last of the men fell by the wayside when the elongated Scotch Banker was soundly trounced by Miss Enders in the semi-final.

And, right here, let us say that Lucy deserved her win. Improving her golf all the way along, she played spectacular golf to beat out Mrs Larson in the final.

At that, we came pretty close to telling Mrs Larson to get the safe ready for the silverware. But, "there's many a slip".

Great credit is due Mrs Larson in reaching the final. She played consistent golf thruout, and had quite a number of hard games to play.

One of the closest games was that between Moyer and Barth. All square on the last hole, an extra hole had to be played to break the tie. Gus was a little off in his direction with his drive, and Durward took advantage of this to lay his dead to the pin. Gus was short in his approach, and, right there, it was all over.

Russ. says: "Well, I got past the dog factory the other night, anyway!"

The long distance champion didn't get going so well in the last tournament, but, watch him in the next.

There's going to be lots of upsets in the next tournament if the class of golf now being played is kept up.

Wednesday afternoon should furnish some real close games when the President v. Vice-President match is played off.

Watch for the next tournament!

Don't pure your shot until you ARE SURE players in front of you are out of range.

Have You Had "Brunch"?

We all know the phrase "Have you had your iron this morning?" but we were knocked off our feet last Sunday when a young society damsel asked us if we had partaken of "brunch." It seems that some arise rather late and so call their first meal "brunch," being a contraction of breakfast and lunch. It is surprising how quickly this fad is taking hold of the younger generation on the farms.—Thoraby Items

Then and Now.

They look more
Like her cupboard.

Accident on Highway.

On Tuesday noon, while Mr John Schmigelski, a prosperous farmer of the Carvel district, was driving in to Stony Plain, on a shopping trip, he was overtaken by a motor truck on the Highway, near the Wes Hubbel farm. In passing, the truck scraped the side of the horse on the left-hand side, cutting thru the hide in several places. John thinks the truck number is BT2985, and reported the matter to the police.

An Infant Abandoned.

Constable Bone, R.C.M.P., had a rather unusual case, on Monday, to investigate. It appears that, early that morning, an infant's cries, coming from the outside, were heard by a couple who are living temporarily on a farm a few miles north of Stony Plain. On an investigation being made, it was discovered an infant had been left near the entrance to the place.

The Police were notified, and the foundling taken to Edmonton by Constable Bone and the gentleman at whose door the foundling was left.

A note is said to have been attached to the infant's clothing indicating the given name and the date of birth.

Spruce Grove News

Mr and Mrs D Brox made a motor trip to Wetaskiwin on Sunday.

Practically all the Grove sports made the trip to the City on Sunday, to witness the big ball game.

The picnic Sunday afternoon last in connection with the Sunday School of the St Matthew's church proved to be a very enjoyable affair.

A movement is on foot to have the roadway at the Grove oiled, and for a quarter mile on either side of the limits.

Following the series of U. F. A. meetings in Stony Plain district, arrangements are under way to have another of these meetings at Winterburn hall, which will be addressed by Russel Love, M.L.A., and Donald MacLeod, M.L.A.

The following is from the columns of the Edmonton Bulletin of 30 years ago: "The new hotel called The Fairview will open at Spruce Grove on Monday."

The places of business in Stony Plain will close at 1 p.m. on Wednesdays.
